Therefore, you prefer investments having very low fluctuations over any period of time. You might invest small part of capital with modest risk for potential capital growth as you become comfortable with slightly riskier assets.
21-40	Balanced	As an investor having Balanced risk profile, you prefer a balance between capital growth and capital preservation. You are prepared to accept moderate short-term risk in order to gain longer term capital growth
41-60	Aggressive	As an investor having Aggressive risk profile, you want to maximize returns on every investment you make, while being fully aware of high-performance fluctuation in the short term. Majority of capital would be invested where there is expectation of high capital growth over long term
